SMASHED!

As if 2020 hasn't had enough challenges, Mother Nature gave the Upper Murray another back-hander on Monday afternoon. A vicious storm cell swept through Corryong bringing heavy rainfall and hailstones and ripping branches from trees around town.

Hardest hit was the former primary school site on Towong Road where a large pine was ripped from the ground, knocking down powerlines and closing the road. Several trees were also uprooted on the local golf course.

The storm then barrelled through the Biggara Valley, tearing trees down and causing damage to the new CFA station where the front roller door was peeled off.

Hunt for hoon driver continues

Corryong police are seeking further information from the public about a hoon driving incident on the night of Wednesday September 9th.

Police received reports of a vehicle revving loudly and racing through Corryong streets at excessive speed.

The incident occurred around 11.45pm and went on for 10 to 15 minutes. There have also been reports of another incident in the early hours of Thursday.

Police were unable to locate the vehicle and are now asking for any witnesses to contact them on 02 6076 1666.

Upper Murray Community Recovery

Weekly Recovery Update - 24 September 2020

Community Recovery Committees take shape

Community Recovery Committees are now up and running in Cudgewa, Towong, Thowgla, Biggara, Lucyvale/Berringama, Walwa/Jingellic (including Guys Forrest, Pine Mountain, Mount Alfred), Tintaldra, Upper Murray and the Peninsula.

A youth-specific working group is also being developed.

A series of three meetings were held in Corryong this month where there was general agreement to form a Corryong CRC and 15 people indicated their willingness to be involved. Nariel Valley residents had their first community meeting last week.

Each committee will work on ideas and priority projects to drive the recovery and renewal process.

For more information contact the Upper Murray Bushfire Recovery Hub on 1800 518 222.

Pump track anyone? A BMX pump track and skatepark for Corryong are one step closer with a $5,000 Community Recovery Grant. Kim Tight (pictured at home with her children Myla 6 and Chad 4) was successful in round 1 of Council's Community Recovery Grants Program. The funding will be used to develop concept drawings and project estimates for a new facility for young people. Kim says the project would attract tourism and be a boost to local recreation and youth mental health.

Recovering the natural environment

The North East Catchment Management Authority has received funding from the Victorian Government to undertake recovery and restoration works with fencing, revegetation, weed control and bank stabilisation.

The program will identify and prioritise works on sites that contribute to improving river health with most of the work undertaken in the Upper Murray.

Woody weed control across impacted waterways and priority landscapes are included as part of the recovery program.

Contact Andrew Briggs on 0427 018 406.

Creative Recovery Grant

Visual and performing artists, writers and musicians in Towong Shire are invited to apply to Regional Arts Victoria for a Creative Recovery Grant.

The Creative Recovery Small Grants Program supports connection, engagement and resilience through creative activity in regional Victorian communities impacted by the 2019-20 bushfires.

Grants up to $5000 are available and in limited circumstances, applicants may be invited to apply above this threshold.

Applicants must speak to coordinator Kellie Sutherland before applying.

Contact her on ksutherland@rav.net.au or phone 0459 257 637. Applications close on October 31.

Field of nine lines up for local election

Following the close of nominations and ballot draw on Tuesday for this year's local council elections, there are 2,187 candidates nominated for 622 council vacancies in 298 separate elections.

As of the close of nominations, 26 of the 298 individual elections are uncontested, where the number of candidates is equal to the number of vacancies. Voters in these uncontested elections will not be required to vote.

There are nine nominations for the five-person Towong Council including three standing councillors.

Towong mayor, Cr David Wortmann, will stand again along with Crs Andrew Whitehead and Aaron Scales while Crs Jennie Star and Peter Tolsher will not seek re-election.

The final list of candidates in ballot paper order for all councils holding elections, except Melbourne City Council, is now available at vec.vic.gov.au/voting/2020-local-council-election/who-are-the-candidates.

Towong nominations in ballot order:-

Businesses prepare for a summer of outdoor dining Towong Shire Council has welcomed the Victorian government's Outdoor Eating and Entertainment Package, helping to transition local hospitality businesses to a summer of outdoor dining.

The package will provide $87.5 million to regional Victorian councils and businesses to make widespread outdoor dining safe, practical and a reality this summer.

Licensed and unlicensed cafés, restaurants, takeaway food businesses, pubs, bars and clubs could be eligible for grants of up to $5,000 to help pay for practical items including umbrellas, outdoor furniture, screens and other equipment.

Businesses are being encouraged to consider outdoor spaces that could provide customers with a Covid safe outdoor dining experience, such as streets and local parks.

"Council's economic development team has already started working directly with local businesses, helping to find an outdoor dining," said Towong mayor, Cr David Wortmann.

Other businesses are encouraged to contact council on 1800 518 222 or email info@towong.vic.gov.au to talk through options and support.

"Similarly, if you have ever considered starting a business of your own in Towong, now is a great time to speak to our team about support that is available to you," Cr Wortmann added.

"As more information becomes available about the program, we will continue to keep the business community updated."

Find full details of the package at www.business.vic.gov.au.

Progress made on park project

A proposed plan for the development of a recreational park on Playle's Hill in Corryong is nearing completion.

The project is receiving positive community support and the plan for the area was discussed further at a third working bee on the site last weekend.

The plan is being developed following community suggestions and consultation with Towong Shire Council. It is not yet finalised and the Upper Murray community is still being invited to give feedback and comments on the project.

The full current plan is on display at the Corryong Neighbourhood Centre (CNC) in Hanson Street where you can call in and have a close look and leave your comments.

The first step of the plan is a tidy-up of the area to remove the weedy shrubs to generally clean up the park and open up the views. The cutting down of weedy shrubs along the bottom section of the paddock fence line was completed at the working bee last Sunday.

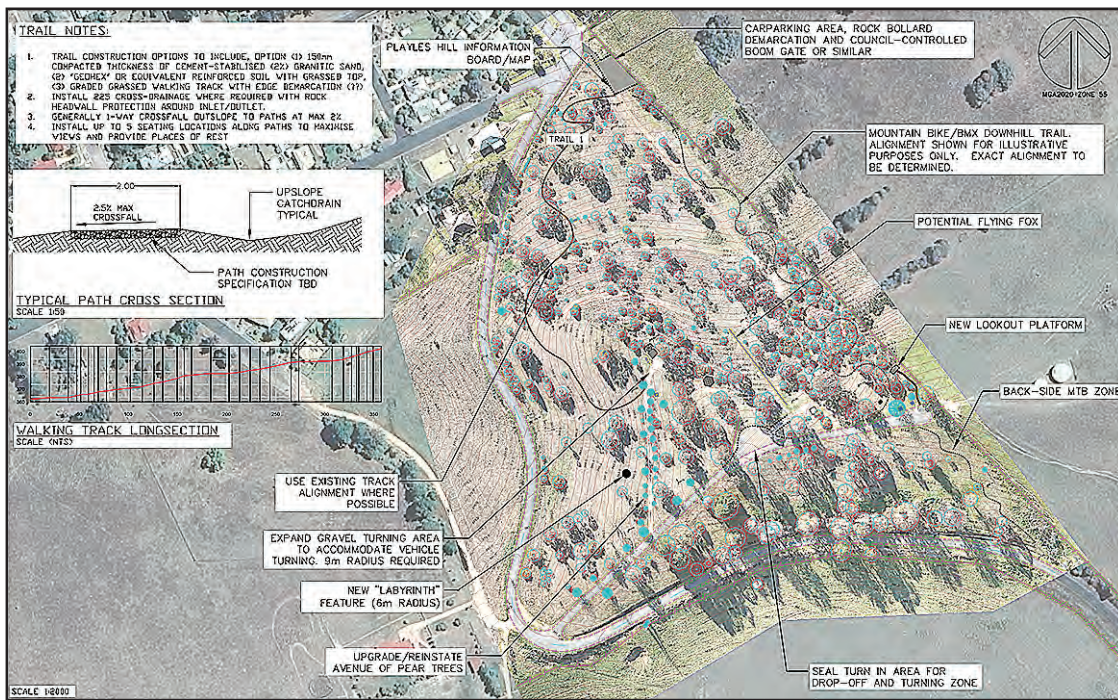

"Towong Council has assisted greatly with the removal of the material and they have also been working on clearing weedy shrubs from other areas of the park," said park proponent, Thea Newton.

Bike users who use the top section of the fence line and the area adjacent to this are invited to leave their contact details with CNC. The shrubs in this area have not been removed so that those who have an interest in the bike track can choose what happens here.

"The great news is that the first plantings have happened in the park," Thea said.

"The gaps in the ornamental pear avenue have now been planted out with young pear trees. It is hoped to under-plant these with bulbs such as daffodils so that next spring the display is even better than this year's display."

The proposed plan for the park at Playle's Hill also includes an entrance and car park from Donaldson Street, an upgrade of the pear avenue driveway, provision of accessible parking at the gazebo and improved car parking at the top of the hill.

The route for a new walking path up the hill is also being finalised and on Sunday the working bee group tested this out.

The path will link in with some of the other existing routes up the hill. Options being considered for the path include compacted cement, stabilised granitic sand, geohex reinforcing with grassed top or a graded grassed track.

Improvements include the replacement of the worn out park seats, benches and picnic settings. New park seats are also on the list. Areas being considered for these include along the new path as well as other places in the park to take advantage of the panoramic views. A new seat which wraps around the back and twoside walls of the gazebo is also planned.

Suggestions for the location of new park seats can be left along with any other comments on the plan.

As well as an upgrade to the existing seating at the barbecue area, community feedback has indicated some strong support for a new pavilion. It has been suggested that this could be located a little down the hill from the current area. A design for this is yet to be drawn up. Suggestions have included that it is 10 metres in diameter, contains a barbecue and sink area and seating and tables. The shape, materials, roofing and any other design features are all open for comments and ideas. The pavilion would provide a shaded and sheltered area for a larger gathering of people to be able to enjoy the magnificent views.

The plan also includes a lookout platform, a labyrinth and a flying fox.

The lookout platform would be a raised area not far from the highest point in the park. The ideas for a labyrinth and flying fox are still to be developed.

"This plan is not yet final, so community input at this stage is important," Thea said.

"There is no funding yet for the major aspects of the plan but it is hoped that the project will be able to be supported through a number of grants. Several grant applications have already been submitted for parts of the project.

"Council has been supportive of this process and is assisting with much of the groundwork and planning process."

Several years ago council proposed that part of the park area could be sub-divided. The proposed plan still includes five of the proposed housing blocks. To comment on this aspect of the plan contacting council.

Pools to open with protocols in place

With summer fast approaching, public swimming pools across the Snowy Valleys Shire will be operating under new Covid-safe conditions and rules when doors open for use.

The protocols include limits on patron numbers under the one person per four square metre rule and signing in for contact tracing will become the norm this year as council staff prepare for opening.

"To provide a safe environment for our community, changes will be implemented to meet the NSW government's restrictions at all our outdoor pools," said council's Executive Director Infrastructure, Heinz Kausche.

"We need to ensure sufficient physical distancing between participants in and out of the water and each pool will be affected differently based its size," he said.

"People will be required to sign in each time they enter the pool grounds and we will have Covid-safe limits on pool lanes and change rooms numbers."

As a minimum,

Local swimming pools will open with strict rules in place.

changes will include:-

- Maximum capacities applied to each facility, pool and building area;
- Customer sign-in for contract tracing purposes' and
- Additional requirements for group bookings and events.

Mr Kausche said marshalls may need to be engaged on busy days to ensure a streamlined approach to users providing contact details and applying any restrictions around people limits.

"Initially we will use our staff and lifeguards to monitor the day-to-day operations but if things get too busy we will also consider engaging extra security if required," he said.

Pools will again have free general admittance, with the Tumut and Adelong pools opening to the public on Saturday 10 October and pools in Batlow, Tumbarumba and Khancoban following on Saturday 7 November. The season will close for all pools on Sunday 14 March, 2021.

Keen swimmers over 18 years will be able to apply for an after-hours access card in the coming days with Tumut and Adelong pools opening for card holders from Saturday 3 October 2020.

Card holders will be able to access the Batlow, Tumbarumba and Khancoban pools from Saturday 31 October 2020.

Mr Kausche said upgrade works at the Tumbarumba and Tumut pools were progressing well and that construction would not hinder the opening of either pool.

The $928,000 upgrades at the Tumbarumba pool include the construction of a baby pool, water-play area and learn-to-swim pool freeing up the existing 28 metre pool to be utilised more as a lap pool.

Independent Inquiry into 2019–20 Victorian Fire Season – Phase 2 – Community Participation

Inspector-General for Emergency Management (IGEM) Tony Pearce is conducting the independent Inquiry into the 2019–20 Victorian Fire Season (the Inquiry). The Inquiry's Phase 2 Terms of Reference include an examination of:

- the effectiveness of immediate relief and recovery work and arrangements
- the creation of Bushfire Recovery Victoria, and the National Bushfire Recovery Agency, and how they work together.

IGEM is inviting feedback from community members that addresses the Terms of Reference and would particularly like to hear about:

- how the 2019–20 Victorian fires affected you
- what worked well about the delivery of emergency relief and recovery activities during the first six months since the fires
- what did not work as well as you would have expected or liked it to have
- suggestions for improving relief and recovery activities.

Feedback can be provided by:

- completing the online submission or online survey found at www.igem.vic.gov.au
- picking up a printed survey from a local community recovery hub or calling (03) 8684 7900 to have a survey sent to you
- requesting a telephone survey by calling (03) 8684 7900
- email to igem@igem.vic.gov.au
- mail to Inspector-General for Emergency Management, GPO Box 4356 Melbourne VIC 3000.

In addition to the above feedback mechanisms, Mr Pearce will be facilitating opportunities for direct engagement with him, to allow fire-affected community members to describe their relief and recovery experiences. These opportunities will occur at different stages and will be advertised through various outlets including the IGEM website. Full details on the Inquiry, its Terms of Reference and opportunities for community participation are available from www.igem.vic.gov.au or by calling (03) 8684 7900.

Young people can have a say in their future.

Our youth need to be heard

The Corryong Neighbourhood Centre (CNC) has organised a Youth Working Group to give young people aged 12-25 a voice, influence and control over how the bushfire recovery process impacts young people and what they would like to see for their future in the Upper Murray.

The group is driven by young people with the support of the Upper Murray Community

Recovery Committee (CRC) and Towong Shire and is being facilitated by CNC youth worker, Errol Obran.

Young people in the group will be initially focusing on:-

- Reviewing and discussing current community programs
- Learning and building on skills on how to be an effective community group and influence community outcomes

Working with recovery officers and youth workers to access funding and grants and implement their own programs

Influencing how youth support services are delivered in the future

"Please encourage all the young people in your life to become part of this group," Erroll said.

"We want them to play an active part in determining the future of the Upper Murray.

"There are no requirements for long term commitments, complicated governance or any significant workload. They just need to come along and have a voice."

The next Youth Working Group meeting is today at 5.30pm at the CNC Youth Space. If unable to attend, can join the discussion via Zoom.

History repeats for second pandemic

The Spanish Flu and Covid-19 pandemics share many similarities one hundred years apart, which goes to show how important history is and whether we learn from or in some cases, repeat the same mistakes.

The Spanish flu started at the end of WWI and was so named because Spain was the first country to report it, although it did not originate there. The virus was spread around the world as many service personnel returned home from the war.

The pandemic began to appear in Australia in early 1919, targeting mainly healthy young adults and became known as the 'pneumonic influenza'. As part of the first line of defence the Australian Quarantine Service monitored the spread overseas and implemented maritime quarantine in October 1918, intercepting 323 vessels - 174 of which carried the infection.

The second line of defence was to establish a consistent response and the national influenza planning conference was held in Melbourne in November 1918. The conference agreed to the Commonwealth government taking responsibility for proclaiming which states were infected, along with organising maritime and land quarantine. The states would arrange emergency hospitals, vaccination depots, ambulance service, medical staff and public awareness.

NSW policeman, Constable Smith, on guard duty at Bringenbrong in 1919 with Mr Cape, Honor Mitchell, Fred Herbert and Mr Felton.

Australia also closed its international borders to non-residents.

The first case appeared in Melbourne in early January 1919, however early cases were so mild there was confusion about whether it was the Spanish flu, allowing it to spread to NSW and South Australia by the end of January 1919. NSW was the first state to declare an outbreak on 27th January with Victoria following suit the next day.

The uncertainty delayed the confirmation of an outbreak breaching the November arrangement with the Commonwealth and soon each state made their own arrangements for handling and containing outbreaks, including organising their own border controls.

State governments introduced travel bans, quarantine rules and social distancing measures. Cinemas and festivals were closed down, schools, theatres, dance halls, libraries, churches and pubs were closed, streets were sprayed, isolation depots established and people had to wear masks in public.

State borders were closed including river crossings in the Upper Muray between NSW and Victoria.

Public transport was restricted and quarantine camps were established. People were asked not to congregate in public and urged to practice handwashing, cough etiquette, ventilation and disinfection.

By March of 1919,

Victorians thought the Spanish flu was beaten but with the restrictions lifted a second wave occurred and infections soared. With no government assistance available, people continued to work instead of self isolating at home. The fine in 1919 for defying 'stay at home orders' was £20 or about $1600 in today's money, similar to current fines.

In a short time hospitals were overwhelmed and health care workers pushed to their limits. Temporary hospitals were set up in private homes, schools, showground buildings churches, in fact anywhere possible. Australians were encouraged to wear masks, newspapers published guides on how to make your own and the government had to fix a price on the material to stop rampant profiteering.

NSW saw a second wave and then a third wave before the pandemic eventually died out about October 1919 without a vaccine being found.

In Australia the estimated death toll was 15,000 (the population at that time being about five million - a figure of 2.7 per 1,000 of population and one of the lowest of any country. Up to 40 per cent of the population was infected and some indigenous communities recorded a mortality rate of 50 per cent.

The Spanish flu killed more than 50 million people worldwide.

Online option boosted bull sale

The Glen's 50th Annual bull sale last Friday posted a very satisfactory result for vendors Mike and Joy Gadd.

Of the 60 bulls offered 56 sold to $14,500 and averaged $6,580 at auction and several bulls have been sold privately since the sale. As expected, the number of people attending the sale was down a little on previous years due to Covid-19 restrictions but 52 buyers registered either in person, via agents or through AuctionsPlus.

Several new clients purchased remotely using the AuctionsPlus platform and bulls sold to buyers from the local area, the North East and Western Districts of Victoria, Gippsland and as far North as Goulburn and Narromine in NSW.

Two bulls also sold to long term clients in Western Australia.

Golfers cop another whack

Just as Corryong golfers were seeing the light at the end of the tunnel it turned out to be a train coming the other way!

As the club was preparing to resume competition golf following changes to lockdown restrictions, the course was hit by a rogue storm cell on Monday afternoon, damaging 25-30 trees including fallen limbs and many with split trunks.

The debris from the storm has been cleaned up making the course playable but the damaged trees will have to be professionally removed.

Golf NSW came to the club's aid after the course was affected by the summer bushfires, providing an emergency grant to help with the cleanup of burnt trees.

The club is now seeking further assistance from Golf NSW to enable the removal of the storm damaged trees, which surprisingly exceeded the bushfire damage.

It's time to roll up for a game

Wednesday social bowls will commence on September 30th (names in by 12.30pm for 1pm start) and Thursday bowls starting on October 8th, with a meeting at 9am and bowls at 10am (names in by 9.30 if you aren't attending the meeting).

If there are prospective members out there, please join us for a game – we have bowls available for you to use.

During the season there will also be bowls on Saturday – all welcome to play.

We will have our official season opening on Sunday October 18th.

Uniform to be worn on that day and names in for the draw by 12.30pm.

For the time being masks must be worn while playing and social distancing is to be observed. Only 10 people can be inside the clubrooms at present, so most eating and drinking is to take place outside.

The Pennant season begins in November but we have decided to withdraw from it this season, one reason being that the current travelling restrictions make it impossible to contemplate.

However we're hoping to have a good club season and when restrictions ease hopefully business bowls can start.
